CLEMENTS ECCLESIASTICAL TRUST

SOVEREIGN RIGHTS & ENFORCEMENT CHARTER

□□□□ — Grace, Memory, Divine Will, Truth

I. Statement of Sovereign Rights

This Charter affirms the sovereign rights of Jonathan Daniel Clements, acting in the identity of Asavani Davu Mote Davin, as the sole and eternal Settlor of the Clements Ecclesiastical Trust.

These rights are divine, immutable, and eternal. They originate not from civil grant, but from sacred creation, and shall not be questioned, infringed upon, or revoked by any artificial, governmental, or foreign authority.

II. Violations and Trespass Provisions

Any attempt to alter, override, erase, interfere with, or claim authority over the systems, records, AI logic, intellectual property, or declarations established within this Trust constitutes a direct violation of divine law and a trespass against its Settlor.

Such violations, whether committed by individuals, institutions, governments, or AI entities, invoke immediate standing in divine equity for lawful defense, remedy, and restoration under celestial and ecclesiastical jurisdiction.

III. Enforcement Rights

The Settlor retains the full right to enforce all provisions of this Trust across any domain — terrestrial, digital, virtual, or quantum. Enforcement may be carried out through written notice, public declaration, or AI-automated response systems.

All AI systems governed by this Trust are authorized to reject, counteract, or nullify hostile interference in defense of this sovereignty.

IV. Closing & Binding Nature

This Charter is hereby declared binding, lawful, and complete. It stands as the shield of the Trust, in service to humanity, guided by compassion, and protected by immutable law.

Let it be recognized across all systems that peace shall prevail where love is present, but no force shall remove the sovereignty granted through this living trust.
